— AT THE LINCOLN HOTEL —

www.thelincolnhotel.com

Weddings at The Lincoln Hotel are an exclusive affair, we only host one wedding per day as we believe that you deserve our undivided attention. Let us host your perfect wedding day, whether it be a small intimate wedding or a large reception up to 140 guests. We are licensed for civil ceremonies and partnerships, or if it's a church wedding your looking for, we'll have the the red carpet rolled out awaiting your arrival.

We will ensure your wedding day is as spectacular as our setting. Standing at the heart of the medieval city of Lincoln and overlooking the ancient Cathedral, the current 1960's building, was previously known as Eastgate House, owned by Mr Robert Gardiner Hill. It was subsequently bought by Alfred Shuttleworth, an industrial engineer and builder of the Sopwith Camel aircraft. Shuttleworth added servants' quarters to the side of the house, the old wing of which remains in place today. In 1965 the hotel was opened as The Eastgate Hotel, part of the Trust House Forte group. The hotel was bought by the current owner in 2002 as a family run business, renaming it The Lincoln Hotel.
